

How the Kerry Theory Works – Example

Kevin Everett was born on February 5, 1982.

Event happened September 9, 2007 at about 18.45 GMT (2:45 pm EDT).

RICHARD PARK, NY – Kevin Everett sustained a "catastrophic" and life-threatening spinal-cord injury while trying to make a tackle during the Buffalo Bills' season opener and is unlikely to walk again, the surgeon who operated on him said Monday.

Kevin Everett, February 5, 1982 (noon EST)

When it comes to the health, you always begin looking at the South Node (health). In this chart we see that the natal South Node is in conjunction with natal Venus and “negative” (square) to Saturn.

Natal Venus has “positive” energy from the natal Sun (natal to natal aspects use 15 degree orb), so what would it take to reverse this energy flow into “negative” energy? It would take an aspect within a 2-degree orb of exact from transiting Venus in “negative” alignment to natal Sun (opposition - which we have) or transiting Sun in “negative” alignment to natal Venus. In this case, how do we know which to use, the “positive” natal Venus or the transiting “negative” Venus?

When I first read about this event, I thought to myself it would have to be Uranus “negative” Venus because Kevin was suddenly removed from something he loves in life. Natal Uranus is “positive” natal Sun and presently, transiting Uranus is “positive” natal Sun. BUT, on this day in time, transiting Sun is “negative” to transiting Uranus (2-deg orb) which reverses the “positive” energy because the energy from transiting Uranus is “negative” to transiting Venus (quincunx is negative).

Venus can be really awful. Most of the serious illnesses are caused from Venus. so, yes, she can be just as bad as Saturn. You might think of her as “easy and sweet”, but she can destroy just as much as the heavy planets do. The natal South Node (health) is conjunct his natal Venus and, on this day when transiting Venus is now “negative”, this opens up the opportunity to connect to transiting Uranus. Note also that transiting South Node is now “negative” to natal Mercury, thus letting the natal South Node now join with the natal Venus because it’s energy is reversed and now “negative”. This tragedy was a “sure thing”.

Transiting Venus is the “key” to this chart. You can just look forward in time, too, and see that transiting Saturn will be “negative” natal Uranus (loss of things in life that you thought were safe and secure), and the South Node is moving backward in longitude and will be “negative” to natal Uranus too at roughly the same time. Kevin’s prognosis is very poor.

Kerry Baidin
11 Sep 2007